CURE YOUR RHEUMATISM AT HOME

A Michigan Veteran Tells How He Was Permanently Cured of a Severe Case.

Every sufferer from rheumatism wants to be cured and to stay cured. The prospect of the return of the same old rheumatism every year is not attractive to anybody who has gone through one stage. Most treatments aim simply to "keep down" the rheumatic poisons in the blood. The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has proved by hundreds of cures that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out these poisons through the regular channels of excretion, the bowels, kidneys and the skin. When this is done the rheumatism is permanently cured, and as long as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be immune from attacks of rheumatism.

Mr. David McCarty, farmer and former postmaster, of Chapin, Mich., is a veteran of the Civil War, having served in Company B, Fourteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry. He says: "For over a year I had rheumatism so badly that I couldn't turn over in bed. There were sharp pains through my hips and left side, which would catch me so quickly that it often seemed as though my back would break. My appetite was very poor and my kidneys were affected. I could not lie on my back, but would have to be propped up on my right side.

"The doctor gave me little help, for the trouble always came back as severely as ever. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a few boxes felt much better. The pain was not so bad and I could eat and sleep better. I gave the pills a good trial and have never had a return of the trouble."

If you are suffering from rheumatism in any form and find that the treatment you are taking does not relieve you, or if you are actually getting worse while taking other treatment, then do not delay, but give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a thorough trial. The remedy that cures others will cure you.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing more information about rheumatism and other diseases of the blood, will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, and will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The Centenary of Alfred Lord Tennyson

ALFRED LORD TENNYSON.
Born August 6, 1809.

ALFRED TENNYSON, born on August 6, 1809, son of a clergyman was one of a peculiarly talented family. He was educated at Cambridge, being a fellow student with Thackeray, and won the Chancellor's medal for a prize poem. During his youth he and his brother Charles published "Poems by Two Brothers," but his serious poetical work began in 1830, when his first volume appeared, to be enthusiastically greeted by many as promising the rise of a new poetical star.

The critics were at first unwilling to acknowledge his claims to greatness, but when "The Princess" appeared his talent was acknowledged. In 1850 his great poem, "In Memoriam," written to commemorate his most intimate friend, Arthur Henry Hallam, made his fame secure. He succeeded Wordsworth as poet laureate of England.

Tennyson chose throughout his life to keep distinct his personality from his work, and it is only recently that the public has been made acquainted with his personal life. He had no circle of recognized admirers and headed no literary clique. He kept apart from clubs, public affairs and social events. His closest friends seem to have been Arthur Henry Hallam, for the few years that they were together, and Carlyle, the latter of whom described him as "a man solitary and sad, dwelling in an element of gloom, carrying a bit of chaos about him which he is manufacturing into cosmos."

Edmund Clarence Steadman said of Tennyson that "as an artist in verse he is the greatest of modern poets. He has the unerring first touch which in a single line proves the artist. He is a born observer of physical nature, and whenever he applies an adjective or passively alludes to some phenomenon is almost infallibly correct." The same critic voices the verdict of the world in lamenting the failure of Tennyson to achieve his ambition of writing a great poetical drama.

The first influence that helped to form his poetry was that of Byron. When Byron died the youthful Tennyson said: "I thought everything was over and finished for every one—that nothing else mattered. I remember I walked out alone and carved 'Byron is dead' into the sandstone."

A little known episode of his career is the journey he made with Hallam in the interest of certain Spanish patriots. The two young Englishmen were the bearers of money and of mysterious dispatches in invisible ink to the conspirators, who were then in hiding in the mountains.

Although in 1832, when the second collection of Tennyson's poems appeared, some of those which have since become the greatest favorites were included, yet ten years passed before the second edition was called for. Only here and there did the poet win an admirer who was convinced of his future greatness. Among those who best knew Tennyson, besides those already mentioned, were Walter Savage Landor, Sterling, the actor Macready, Forster, afterward the biographer of Dickens, and John Stuart Mill.

His marriage was peculiarly happy, his wife being a niece of Sir John Franklin, the explorer, whose fate in the Arctic regions was so long a mystery.

There is no better proof of Tennyson's rank than the width of his popularity and the hearty praise of those celebrities of his time who were best fitted to judge him. Wordsworth put him first among living poets; Browning declared him "in poetry illustrious and consummate, in friendship noble and sincere." Mrs. Browning declared him "a divine poet." Rossetti's phrase was "the greatest poet of the period." Thackeray, taking an even broader view, said, "the wisest man I knew." Dickens and Swinburne also praised him as highly, and Gladstone generously wrote: "His life and labors extend in point of time as nearly as possible to my own, but his exertions have been on a higher plane of human action than my own; he has worked in a higher field, and his work will be more durable." The three best American critics speak as follows: Emerson, "Tennyson has invariable felicity in all poetic forms;" Lowell, "It may be centuries before such a thinker and speaker as Tennyson appears;" Steadman, "The ablest representative of the refined, speculative, complex Victorian age."

WILLIAMSON CASE UP AGAIN TO-DAY

It Looks as if Fugitive Husband Would Be Charged With Murder.

PRIMARY ELECTION QUIET

Many Petersburg Democrats Refrain from Going to the Polls.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Petersburg, Va., August 5.—Judge West, of Sussex county, has been holding court for Judge Mullen this week, winding up the business of the July term. Judge Mullen is in North Carolina. A motion was made and argued before Judge West to-day to allow bail for Ann Mickle, colored, who recently shot and killed her husband, Grant Mickle, during a quarrel. The judge overruled the motion and denied bail. The woman is said to have several children.

Dr. H. G. Leigh, the coroner, has directed the jury of inquest in the case of Mrs. Fannella Williamson, alleged to have been poisoned by her husband, to meet to-morrow evening in the police station to complete their investigation. The jurors were sworn in on the day that Mrs. Williamson's body was disinterred, July 7, and the vicars removed and taken to Dr. William H. Taylor, of Richmond, for autopsy. They were then adjourned over until the result of the analysis should be known. Dr. Taylor has reported the findings of analysis in all the organs sent him. A number of witnesses will be summoned to testify before the jury to-morrow evening. There seems no question that the coroner's jury will charge Julius A. Williamson, now a fugitive from justice, with the murder of his wife.

Warehouse Property Sold.
The old Centre Warehouse property, fronting on Washington and Union streets, has been purchased on pre-emptive terms by the Rockledge Realty Company, and it is said that handsome stores will be erected on the site, with fronts on Washington Street and Centre Street. The warehouse is one of the landmarks of the city. It was for a great many years, both anterior to and after the war, one of the most important houses of the city, but finally went out of commission as such. At present it is used as a storage house, an automobile garage and in part as a temporary post-office.

Personal and Political.
The primary election to-day was about the quietest in the history of Petersburg. Many old-line Democrats, opposing the present primary plan as practically destroying the independence of the voter and refusing to subscribe to the pledge on the ballot, refrained from going to the polls. There was a fairly good organization among the Mann forces, but absolutely none among the Tucker forces, and this fact told strongly against the Valley candidate.

Thomas H. Boisseau, a native of Dinwiddie, but now an esteemed citizen of Petersburg, will celebrate his fifty-third birthday on August 25. He was for many years a magistrate of the county and is the sole survivor of the old magistracy. The last session of which, on account of the war, was held on March 20, 1865, in Mann's Methodist Church, in that county.

Miss Lillie Williams and James L. Heath, both of this city, left this morning for Halifax, N. C., where they were married this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Worth left last evening for New York, via the Old Dominion Line.

Koenig Adams, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Adams, had a narrow escape from drowning on Tuesday while bathing at Ocean View. He was swept into deep water by the undertow, but was fortunately rescued by one of the life-savers.

Carver—Council.
A pretty home wedding took place yesterday evening at 6:15 o'clock, when Miss Huldane Council, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Virginia H. Council, of Warrenton, was married to David J. Carver, formerly of Tennessee, now of Nanjing, China. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends by the brother of the groom, Dr. William O. Carver, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, assisted by Rev. James G. Council, father of the bride. After the ceremony a small reception was held. The house was tastefully decorated with greens and cut flowers. Palms and ferns formed a bow before which the bridal party posed. The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met by the groom, attended by Thomas B. Hughes, of Baltimore, as best man. She wore a gown of ivory satin, made princess, with duchess and rosepoint lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her veil was caught with blossoms of the same. Miss Edith Pendleton McCarthy, of Richmond, was maid of honor, she wore a dainty white lingerie dress over soft white silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Nora Harris, of Culpeper county, presided at the piano.

After a brief wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Carver will sail from Vancouver for Nanjing, China, where Mr. Carver will resume his work as teacher in one of the Chinese government colleges.

MIDDLE DISTRICT ASSOCIATION

Close of One of the Most Harmonious Sessions in Its History.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHESTER, VA., August 5.—Rev. Dr. McDaniel, of the First Baptist Church, at Richmond, made an interesting address last evening before the Middle District Association in session here, of the "Sunday School" as it is related to the pastor, superintendent, teacher and church. His remarks were strong, after the doctor's usual style, and this morning the association began its third and last day, Rev. J. T. Tucker conducting the usual devotional exercises.

Dr. J. G. Loving offered a resolution on the order of business for the next annual meeting. A report was made by E. A. Lamb on "Systematic Benevolence," and was discussed by him, and Rev. J. W. Reynolds, of H. H. Lawson.

The report as to "How to Train Our Young Men" was made and discussed in an earnest manner by Dr. Durham, Rev. J. W. Lawson and J. H. Hobson. The speech of Dr. Durham was ordered to be printed and distributed to the churches with the "Minutes." The report on "Home Missions" was made by S. K. Rowley, of H. H. Lawson, and adopted.

The report on "State Missions" was taken up and discussed by Rev. J. T. Haley, F. A. Lamb and J. W. Holt. Thanks to Chester folks.

A resolution of thanks to the people of Chester and vicinity, including all the denominations, for abundant and hospitable entertainment, was offered and unanimously adopted. The clerk was ordered to print and distribute to the churches 500 copies of the minutes. A resolution was offered and passed, requesting the executive board to change the subjects and program, and submit new subjects, which was referred to the board, and after the closing of the session the executive committee held its meeting and adopted some new subjects for the next annual meeting.

Touching Scenes.
The closing of the session was touching and impressive. Mr. Jure, the moderator, requested the ministers and delegates to make two-minute valedictory speeches, and then the ministers then form a line facing the congregation and the delegates, and the congregation comes forward and shake their hands, all singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." These parting speeches were full of love and consecration, and very affecting, and the association closed, after the most harmonious and fervid session of its history, as certified to by all.

A Good Roads Meeting.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ASHEVILLE, N. C., August 5.—The first meeting in the good roads campaign in interest of a system of maintaining highways through the mountains of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee, to be held here in October, was held at March 20, 1865, in Mann's Methodist Church, in that county.

Miss Lillie Williams and James L. Heath, both of this city, left this morning for Halifax, N. C., where they were married this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Worth left last evening for New York, via the Old Dominion Line.

Koenig Adams, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Adams, had a narrow escape from drowning on Tuesday while bathing at Ocean View. He was swept into deep water by the undertow, but was fortunately rescued by one of the life-savers.

SAWMILL MAN MEETS WITH PECULIAR MISHAP
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
EMPORIA, VA., August 5.—Marion H. Kline, a well-known sawmill man of Emporia, who is connected with a local firm of lumber dealers, was the victim of an unusual accident late this afternoon. Mr. Kline, while standing before a rip-saw machine, which was running several hundred revolutions per minute, and through which a plank was rapidly passing, was struck by the board over the abdominal region and both forearms. The force of the blow knocked Mr. Kline several feet, when he fell prostrated by the impact of the plank. Besides sustaining a broken forearm and several severe bruises over the body, Mr. Kline suffered greatly from shock. He was promptly given surgical attention by Dr. Lucian Lofton, of North Emporia, and later removed to his home.
